St George Division of General Practice is offering women a free Pap smear clinic at Rockdale

When was the last time you had a Pap smear?

A Pap smear is a screening test. This means that women without any symptoms are tested at regular intervals (every two years) to check for changes in the cells of the cervix (neck of the womb). If changes are found early, they can be checked by more frequent Pap smears. If needed, changes can be further investigated and treated well before cancer develops<sup>1</sup>.

Ask your doctor (GP) for a referral to this free clinic.

To access this clinic you will need a referral from your family doctor (GP). Just ask him next time you visit.

Your Family doctor will fax your referral and you will be contacted with an appointment time.

The St George Division of General Practice Women's Health Clinic is easily accessible by public transport - both bus and train. It is open every Friday (not public holidays) from Friday 5th September 2008.

While you are with the nurse she will also perform (if appropriate) breast checks & pelvic floor assessments.
